Management Commentary

Our Q3 performance reflects steady execution in a complex macroeconomic environment, driven by robust demand for our cloud infrastructure solutions. While supply chain normalization has helped stabilize hardware costs, we continue to prudently manage operating expenses to protect margins. We remain confident in our long-term growth trajectory as digital transformation initiatives accelerate globally.

Risks And Challenges

- Intensified pricing pressure from emerging AI-focused cloud competitors.
- Potential regulatory shifts regarding cross-border data transfer compliance in Europe.
- Wage inflation for specialized software engineering and AI talent.

Outlook Next Quarter

Looking ahead to Q4 2026, we anticipate continued moderate revenue growth supported by seasonal enterprise software renewals. We will focus on scaling our recent product launches and optimizing our go-to-market strategy to capture emerging market opportunities.
