Management Commentary

Our Q3 performance reflects steady enterprise demand for our automated analytics suites, despite broader macroeconomic headwinds. We remain disciplined in our capital allocation while continuing to invest strategically in our core AI-driven product pipelines.

Risks And Challenges

- Increased pricing pressure from emerging competitors in the mid-market segment.
- Elevated R&D; expenditures required to maintain technological advantage in generative analytics.
- Navigating evolving cross-border data privacy regulations in the European Union.

Outlook Next Quarter

We anticipate Q4 revenue to be in the range of $505M to $520M, driven by seasonal enterprise software budget deployments. Our primary focus for the upcoming quarter will be scaling our partner ecosystem and accelerating adoption of our newly introduced security modules.
